Hello Maria

I also forgot to mention that according to the new rule since the depth to ground water is deeper than 100 feet we will no longer be needing to set a liner at 4 ft. Just as long as we make sure the top 4 feet consist of 600 ppm or less concentration of chlorides we should be good.

Hello Mr. Thomas,

As you may know on August 14, 2018 NMOCD's new Spill Rule and updated C-141 came into effect. There are links below. At a minimum OCD will need the Remediation Plan section of the C-141 filled in. Once reviewed I may add as a condition of approval that the soil will be removed not remediated in-situ by RxSoil. Please note at this time 2RP-4781 does not have a reviewed or approved Remediation Plan for this spill. Let me know if you have any questions or need any assistance.

New Spill Rule:

Maria,

I apologize but we do not have an updated remediation plan. We were planning to perform the excavation to the exact same depths as well as installing all liners as specified in RxSoil's Work plan but instead of washing the soil we will just dispose of it and bring in clean backfill. Diamondback then would complete a closure report of their own with all remediation activities explained, along with all required closure bottom hole and side wall sampling.

Hello Zack,

Thank you for the update! Please send the updated Remediation Plan and the C-141 cover sheet.
Do you have links to the new rule and updated C-141?

Mike and Maria,

I submitted a work plan/delineation from Rx Soil for this release about 10 days ago. I explained that we may very well go with dig and haul if cost effective, and that's what we are going to do. Diamondback will be performing the remediation and also the closure report when complete. The insurance company is pressuring us to start the work on this remediation asap.
