OCD approval does not relieve the operator of liability should their operations fail to adequately investigate and remediate contamination that may pose a threat to groundwater, surface water, human health or the environment. In addition, OCD approval does not relieve the operator of responsibility for compliance with any other federal, state, or local laws and/or regulations.

Robert,

I apologize for the confusion. Attached are the corrected C-141s. I mistakenly submitted pages from the wrong document. These, with the supporting documentation in the original emails should make more sense. Thanks!

Respectfully,

Joel Lowry
