General: This form is designed for submitting proposals to perform certain well operations, and reports of such operations when completed, as indicated, on Federal and Indian lands pursuant to applicable Federal law and regulations, and, if approved or accepted by any State, on all lands in such State, pursuant to applicable State law and regulations. Any necessary special instructions concerning the use of this form and the number of copies to be submitted, particularly with regard to regional procedures and practices, are shown below or will be issued by or may be obtained from, the local Federal and/or State office.

Item 4: If there are no applicable State requirements, locations on Federal or Indian land should be described in accordance with Federal requirements. Consist local State or Federal office for specific instructions.

Item 17: Proposals to abandon a well and subsequent reports of abandonment should include such special information as is required by local regulations and/or State offices. In addition, such proposals and reports should include reasons for the abandonment; data on any former or present productive zones, or other zones with present significant fluid contents, not sealed in by cement or otherwise; depths (top and bottom) and method of placement of cement plugs; mud or other material placed between and above plugs; amount, size, method of starting of casing, liner or tubing pulled and the depth to top of any left in the hole; method of closing top of well; and date well shut-in and conditioned for final inspection looking to approval of the abandonment.

1. The first of these is the fact that the "new" system of classification is based on a different set of criteria than the old system. The old system was based on the number of pages in a document, while the new system is based on the number of words. This change is significant because it allows for a more accurate assessment of the complexity of a document. For example, a document with many pages but few words would be classified as "simple" under the old system, but as "complex" under the new system. This is because the new system takes into account the number of words, which is a more direct measure of complexity.

1. The first step in the process of identifying a problem is to define the problem. This involves identifying the symptoms of the problem and determining the scope of the problem. Once the problem has been defined, the next step is to identify the causes of the problem. This involves identifying the factors that are contributing to the problem and determining the underlying causes. Once the causes have been identified, the next step is to develop a plan of action. This involves identifying the steps that need to be taken to solve the problem and determining the resources that will be needed to implement the plan. Finally, the last step in the process is to implement the plan and monitor the results. This involves putting the plan into action and tracking the progress of the solution to ensure that the problem is solved.
