Re: Step-rate test on SFPRR #80

Dear Chuck,

After reviewing the results of the referenced test it appears that the test should be redone at lower incremented rates. There is a possibility that the parting pressure we derived from this test could be secondary and that a lower parting pressure was missed due to lack of data.

I recommend that the test be redone at 5 BWPD increments through a meter that can adequately measure rates from 5 BWPD to 75 BWPD.

Contact this office so that we may witness the test.

Yours truly,
