DETAILS OF WORK

(State names of and expected depths to objective sands; show sizes, weights, and lengths of proposed casings; indicate mudding jobs, cementing points, and all other important proposed work)

On August 22, 1954 cable tools were moved over the well, the 1" tubing pulled, and the hole cleaned out to total depth of 3100'. The fractured oilife formation (3000' - 3100') was then treated, through the 7" casing with 10,000 gallons of 2 diesel oil and 7000 sand. Breakdown pressure 7000, maximum pressure 1200. Injection rate 300 gallons per minute. Flashed with 5000 gallons oil. Gage before treatment 3,220 M.F. Gage 12 hours after treatment 4,050 M.F. On August 25, 1954 ran 1" tubing, landed at 2700'.

I understand that this plan of work must receive approval in writing by the Geological Survey before operations may be commenced.

Title

District Engineer

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The text also mentions the need for regular audits and the role of independent auditors in ensuring the reliability of the data.

2. The second part of the document focuses on the implementation of internal controls. It outlines the various measures that can be taken to minimize the risk of errors and misstatements. These include the establishment of clear policies and procedures, the segregation of duties, and the use of automated systems to reduce the potential for human error. The text also discusses the importance of training staff and the need for ongoing monitoring and evaluation of the internal control system.

3. The third part of the document addresses the issue of transparency and disclosure. It argues that providing timely and accurate information to stakeholders is crucial for building trust and confidence in the organization. This involves not only disclosing financial results but also providing information on the company's operations, risks, and environmental impact. The text also discusses the role of external auditors in verifying the accuracy of the disclosed information.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the importance of ethical behavior in the workplace. It emphasizes that ethical conduct is not only a moral imperative but also a key factor in the long-term success of an organization. The text outlines the various ways in which ethical behavior can be promoted, including the establishment of a code of ethics, the provision of ethics training, and the implementation of a system of rewards and penalties for ethical conduct.

5. The fifth and final part of the document provides a summary of the key points discussed in the previous sections. It reiterates the importance of accurate record-keeping, internal controls, transparency, and ethical behavior, and emphasizes the need for ongoing commitment and effort to ensure the integrity and success of the organization.
