DETAILS OF WORK

(State names of and expected depths to objective sands; show sizes, weights, and lengths of proposed casings; indicate mudlogging jobs, cementing points, and all other important proposed work)

This well is a Water Injection Well for the Gallup Gallup Sand Unit. Water injection was discontinued on July 31, 1963. This well is shut down until further notice due to changes in injection pattern in the pilot waterflood.

I understand that this plan of work must receive approval in writing by the Geological Survey before proposed work is commenced.

Title Dist. Supt.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud.

2. The second part of the document outlines the specific requirements for record-keeping. It states that all transactions must be recorded in a timely and accurate manner, and that the records must be maintained for a minimum of five years. It also discusses the importance of ensuring that the records are accessible and can be easily reviewed.

3. The third part of the document discusses the role of the auditor in verifying the accuracy of the records. It states that the auditor must perform a thorough review of the records to ensure that they are complete and accurate. It also discusses the importance of the auditor's independence and the need for the auditor to report any discrepancies to the appropriate authorities.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the consequences of failing to comply with the record-keeping requirements. It states that any individual or organization that fails to maintain accurate records may be subject to fines and penalties. It also discusses the potential for reputational damage and the loss of trust in the financial system.

5. The fifth part of the document discusses the importance of ongoing monitoring and review of the record-keeping process. It states that the records should be reviewed regularly to ensure that they are up-to-date and accurate. It also discusses the importance of implementing controls to prevent errors and fraud.

6. The sixth part of the document discusses the importance of training and education for all individuals involved in the record-keeping process. It states that all individuals should be trained in the proper record-keeping procedures and should be aware of the importance of maintaining accurate records. It also discusses the importance of ongoing education and the need to stay up-to-date on the latest record-keeping practices.
