

Peter Coha and Norm Gaume created this Coha/Gaume Excel workbook of New Mexico oil production and produced wastewater spills for the three calendar years 2017 through 2019. They deemed the 2020 data too incomplete.

This Excel workbook contains calculations, analysis, reports and graphs based on Oil Conservation Division (OCD) production and spill public databases and derivative Excel spreadsheets. The website, databases, and downloadable Excel spreadsheets are maintained and made publicly available by the Oil Conservation Division. (<https://wwwapps.emnrd.state.nm.us/ocd/ocdpermitting/default.aspx>).

Data are self-reported to the OCD by OCD- registered oil and gas operators that are assigned a unique OGRID, which the authors used to merge discrete downloaded spreadsheets, each of which is included in this workbook.

The authors have discovered, as documented below, that the OCD databases that constitute the input data for this analysis are currently in a state of change, including material changes to data for all three of the years covered in this analysis.

The authors are responsible for their analysis. They are not responsible for and do not stand behind the input data. It is telling the input data are changing after the initial release of compiled information from this workbook to the Senate Conservation Commission and the OCD. The authors conclude this analysis reveals problems.

The authors recommend the New Mexico 2021 Legislature address these problems by passing SB 86 (2021) and funding the state oversight of oil and gas operators and operations that is necessary to protect public health, the environment, and fresh water resources.

1. Coha/Gaume created spreadsheet with calculations, analysis, reports and graphs with Oil Conservation Division (OCD) production and spill data from the following sources:

a. OCD Spills Database provided spill data from 2017 to 2019, inclusive. Located at:

<https://wwwapps.emnrd.state.nm.us/ocd/ocdpermitting/Data/Spills/Spills.aspx>

Specific extract string specifying spill data from 2017 to 2019:

b. Annual production data from OCD

Notes:

1. Pivot tables and graphics based on pivot tables require a manual recalculation in excel. They don't automatically recalculate.

2. Some chart, table or pivot data may be calculated based on the data or column names and changing these may cause unintended impacts to charts, tables, and pivot charts, if changed. See correction for 2017-2019 oil production and spills analysis-r0e-3.xlsx
