To the GLA-66 Owners' knowledge, no other party has entered an appearance or filed opposition in this matter.

PROPOSED EVIDENCE

At the time the GLA-66 Owners filed their pre-hearing statement, the applicant, Burlington Resources Oil and Gas Company ("Burlington"), had not yet served its pre-hearing statement.

OPPOSITION OR OTHER PARTY

The GLA-66 Owners intend to make a statement of their position to the Commission, but do not anticipate presenting any witnesses nor exhibits. The GLA-66 Owners reserve the right to present witnesses and exhibits depending upon the proof offered by Burlington in support of its Application.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

Burlington has filed its application in this case seeking to "enlarge the scope of the confidentiality provisions [of OCD Rule 1105.C] and to provide for multiple extensions of the 90-day 'confidentiality period'" of Rule 1105.C. (See Burlington Application, p. 1.) In summary, the salient features of Burlington's proposed amended Rule 1105.C are that it:

- (a) expands the coverage of Rule 1105.C from (i) dealing only with the geophysical data reported on Form C-105 to (ii) including virtually everything that a party wants kept confidential;
- (b) expands the coverage of Rule 1105.C from (i) dealing only with Form C-105 submittals to (ii) all appearances -- required forms, rule-making proceedings, adjudications -- "before the Division . . .";
- (c) is so poorly-worded as to arguably contain two separate confidentiality provisions, as presented by Burlington's application;¹ and
- (d) completely eliminates what had been one saving aspect of Rule 1105.C, i.e., that the Form C-105 "data may, when pertinent, be introduced in any public hearing before the Division or its examiners or in any court of law, regardless of the request that they be kept confidential." See Rule 1105.C.

Burlington's proposed amendment is not merely a new "tight hole rule." It is a rule that would fundamentally change the practice before the OCD.

Burlington's present application does not stand alone. On June 5, 1997 pursuant to an application by Burlington, the Oil Conservation Commission issued Order R-10815 amending OCD Rule 104, which had provided for 160-acre gas spacing and proration units in the San Juan Basin, to allow 640-acre proration and spacing units for deep gas wells in the San Juan Basin. Under the previous 160-acre spacing rule, far fewer parties were affected by drilling operations than would now be affected under the 640-acre spacing rule. Yet, this increased number of affected parties will have diminished access to information. By then force-pooling interests, Burlington can compel uninformed interest owners to bear a disproportionate share of the costs and expenses of Burlington's deep gas exploration program.

Respectfully submitted,
