Army Worker Guilty

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A former ammunition plant worker has pleaded guilty to participating in one of two schemes to defraud the Army out of hundreds of thousands of dollars.

James E. Lewis III, former administrative branch manager for the Westinghouse Electric Supply Co., was one of five employees of Remington Arms Co. and Westinghouse indicted last week on charges of conspiracy and defrauding the Army.

Lewis agreed to cooperate with the government months before the indictments were handed up, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Schneider.

He said Lewis, who appeared Monday before U.S. District Judge Howard F. Sachs, would be put on probation, will have to pay no more than $200 restitution and still faces the possibility of a fine up to $10,000.

Remington operates the Lake City Ammunition Plant under a contract with the Army and is reimbursed by the Army for its expenses. Westinghouse supplied electrical goods to Remington.

The five men are charged with submitting $273,000 in bills to Remington for goods that never were delivered or that the defendants kept and used for themselves, prosecutors said. Remington paid the bills and was reimbursed by the Army.

Two of the defendants also have been charged with defrauding the Army of more than $200,000 by submitting inflated bills for electrical equipment sold to Remington.

Four defendants have been charged with more than 24 counts each of conspiracy, mail fraud and defrauding the Army. Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and fines up to $10,000.
