ANNOUNCEMENT

The University of Chicago Library is pleased to announce the opening of its new building, which will be completed in the fall of 1961. The new building will provide a modern and spacious environment for the library's collections and services. It will also provide a new and improved reading room for the library's patrons.

NEW BUILDING TO BE OPENED

The new building will be located on the east side of the campus, near the intersection of East Chicago Avenue and East Chicago Street. It will be a three-story building with a total area of approximately 100,000 square feet. The building will contain the library's main collection, as well as a new reading room and a new study center.

The new building will be opened in the fall of 1961. The library will continue to operate from its current building until the new building is ready for occupancy.
