Longfellow's rebuttal evidence responds to the pre-filed self-affirmed statements of Spur witnesses Nash Bell and Matthew Van Wie, and the exhibits filed with Spur's Pre-Hearing Statement, and is directed to the issues set for hearing in the Division's July 17, 2026, Order. Longfellow reserves the right to present the following rebuttal witnesses and exhibits, and to offer additional rebuttal as warranted by the evidence at hearing:

Through Jacob DeHamer, Senior Geologist, Longfellow will present rebuttal testimony responding to the target-configuration testimony of Nash Bell and the technical opinions of Matthew Van Wie concerning the Panhead/Flathead parent-child comparison. Mr. DeHamer will address the technical comparability of that analog and its application to the Petty development, the retained nine-well, three-interval framework, the well-to-interval reassignments, the resulting same-bench spacings, the production figures and classifications reported by Spur, and will distinguish Longfellow's development information from those figures and classifications. Longfellow will offer Rebuttal Exhibits C-7 through C-10 through Mr. DeHamer.

Through David Mitchell, Engineer and Chief Operating Officer, Longfellow will present rebuttal testimony responding to Mr. Van Wie's testimony concerning parent-child effects, depletion, and the consequences of sequential development. Mr. Mitchell will distinguish an observed offset-completion interaction and operating response in existing producers from the effect of prior depletion on a later well, describe Longfellow's sequential-development and offset-completion management measures, and address their application to the producing 006H and the planned offset development of the remaining Wells. Longfellow will offer Rebuttal Exhibits D-7 through D-10 through Mr. Mitchell.

Rebecca L. English will testify concerning the BLM and related agency communications she sent or received that are summarized in the rebuttal exhibits, and will authenticate the land-context material she reviewed. Her testimony will distinguish the information communicated by BLM from Longfellow's development-planning decisions. Longfellow will offer Rebuttal Exhibits LR-1 through LR-4 through Ms. English.
