Lea County, New Mexico

General Information

The E-K Queen Unit 618 water injection well will be located in the SE 1/4, section 13, T18S, R33E, about 20 miles southwest of Lovington, NM in the Permian Basin. Seely Oil Company has indicated one bed within the Queen formation as the proposed injection zone (4,344'-4,351' below ground surface). This report assesses any potential concerns relating to the connection between the injection zone and known underground potable water sources.

Groundwater Sources

Three principal aquifers are used for potable groundwater in Lea County; these geologic units include the Triassic Santa Rosa formation, Tertiary Ogallala formation, and Quaternary alluvium. Nicholson and Clebsch (1961) state, "Potable ground water is not available below the Permian and Triassic unconformity but, because this boundary is not easily defined, the top of the Rustler anhydrite formation is regarded as the effective lower limit of 'potable' ground water." Around the E-K Queen Unit 618, a thick anhydrite unit interpreted to represent the Rustler formation lies at a depth of ~1660 feet bgs.

Faults and Fractures

The Geologic Map of New Mexico (2003) shows the nearest fault to the well location is found 45 miles to the northwest (Figure 1). A large accumulation of northwest trending Basin and Range style normal faults lie ~80 miles from the well. This fault zone is interpreted to be a southeastern extension of the Rio Grande Rift zone (Muehlberger et al., 1978) and is the only area in which deeply penetrating faults exist throughout the region.

A structure contour map of the Paleozoic Ellenburger formation shows the E-K Queen Unit 618 well is adjacent to many Precambrian basement faults (Figure 2; Modified from Ruppel et al., 2009). However, Montgomery (1997) shows that these faults remain deep below the surface and do not penetrate the Delaware Mountain group or Upper Permian, including the Permian Queen formation (Figure 3).

Stratigraphy

Well data in this region is recorded by the New Mexico Oil Conservation Division (OCD). Well logs from the E-K Queen Unit 618 well (API# 30-025-29437) show a minimum of 100 feet of low permeability (limestone/dolomite/anhydrite) units both above and below the proposed injection zone (Figure 4). The injection zone is characterized by a very high porosity zone. Well data indicates ~2,700 ft of rock separating the top of the Queen Formation from the previously stated lower limit of potable water at the top of the Rustler anhydrite formation. Within the separating ~2,700 feet of strata include several horizons of impermeable formations including the Rustler anhydrite and Salado halite formations.

Concluding Statement

Geologic data evaluated around the E-K Queen Unit 618 water injection well show no potential structural or stratigraphic connection between the Queen Formation injection zone and any subsurface potable water sources.

Figure 2. Structural contour map of the Paleozoic Ellenburger formation. Thick black lines represent the locations of deep Precambrian basement faults. Precambrian faults are close to the proposed well location (~5 mi), however, these faults are too deep to allow the injected fluids to travel toward the surface or cause any other concern.

Figure 3. Cross section of the Permian Basin from Montgomery (1997). Notice the basement faults only penetrating through the Leonardian and deeper formations and not through the proposed injection zone within the Delaware Mtn. Group.

Figure 4. Well log taken from the E-K Queen Unit 618 well illustrating the proposed injection zone in a dashed red line. The injection zone is characterized by an extremely high porosity bed. The injection zone is confined on either side by a 100 ft minimum of low porosity beds of limestone, dolomite, anhydrite, etc.
