

The Wyper #2, Brown #2, and Waggoner #1 were drilled and completed during 1946 and 1947. These wells produced gas for several years and are now temporarily abandoned. The operators are deceased and the only person now responsible is the bonding company. Presently, a survivor of one of the principles of the company is taking domestic gas from the Waggoner #1. He has told me that he is acquiring a bond and will assume responsibility for the well. However, due to the possibility that he may change his mind, we would want the well included in an order.

Exhibits 1, 2, and 3 show photos, maps, well bore sketches and plugging programs for the three wells.
