Re: Unit Petroleum Company/Case No. 13124

Dear Mr. Jones:

Your letter of November 3, 2003 is not acceptable. Unit notified the proper parties of the hearing. If not, then the un-notified interest owners will not be subject to the pooling order. That is the only consequence. However, it is NOT a reason for delaying issuance of an order. Certainly the order will be binding on BTA and Brad Bennett, who were notified of the hearing.

The testimony at hearing was not that BTA merely represents many interest owners. It was that, under BTA's agreements with these owners, BTA has the right to make well elections for all owners. Thus, notice to the other interest owners is unnecessary. Attached as Exhibit A is a telephone note of a call from D. Michael Fankhouser (Vice-President of Unit) to Robert Crawford (General Counsel of BTA), in which Mr. Crawford advised Unit that BTA is attorney-in-fact for its partners. Attached as Exhibit B is a letter from Unit to BTA, which asked for BTA to notify Unit if it did not have power of attorney for its partners. BTA entered an appearance in this case, and did not testify otherwise.

This situation has occurred before: In Case Nos. 12407¹ and 12449, BTA and its partners were notified of a well proposal, and BTA responded that it had the authority to act on behalf of its working interest partners. See Exhibit C. Order No. R-11451 pooled the well unit.

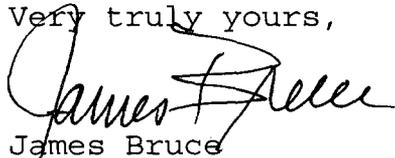

¹Case No. 12407 was dismissed, while Case No. 12449 proceeded to hearing.

If Unit did not properly notify an interest owner, Unit can seek to amend the pooling order to pool additional parties. This has been done numerous times. Most recently I did it in Case No. 13043 (reopened), on behalf of Nadel and Gussman Permian, L.L.C. And, if additional notice is required, pooling can be done after the well is commenced or drilled. Commission Order No. R-11700-B.

Unit needs an order immediately, so it can give an election notice to BTA and Brad Bennett before it commences drilling.

Please call if you would like to discuss this issue.

Very truly yours,

Attn: Mr. S. G. Thompson

Gentlemen:

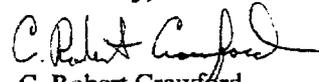

We have this date received your numerous letters addressed to our Partners and Investors concerning the captioned well.

We are not exactly sure why these were sent, since in the Assignment dated February 1, 1985, recorded in Book 380, page 490 of the Lea County Official Public Records, said Assignment is made subject to "(b) terms and provisions of Joint Operating Agreement dated November 22, 1978 between Bernard E. Alpern, et al, as Non-Operators and BTA Oil Producers, as Operator;". Since BTA was named Operator, we represent all of the Partners and Investors as shown in said Assignment.

You should have already received our May 5, 2000 letter whereby BTA has advised you of its decision, and said decision is on behalf of all of its Partners and Investors.

Should you have any questions concerning this matter, please do not hesitate to contact the undersigned.

Yours truly,
