Devon Energy Production Company, L.P. respectfully requests to sundry the approved well as follows, per Matt Husman, Production Engineer:

"Casing collapsed at 2,870'. An attempt to restore collapsed casing with a sedge was unsuccessful. An impression block showed that the casing may actually be parted. The cement top is at 5,918' and the bottom of the intermediate 8-5/8" casing is at 3,940'. Pull casing from above part, dress top of casing with a slightly concaved mill and reset casing with lead seal. Pressure test seal according to BLM requirements and work way down the well to assure competent casing to cement top or lower if so desired. Restore well to production."

Operator to pressure test lead seal and then pressure test entire casing string 500psi for 30min on a chart recorder properly scaled
