REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE AMERICAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

The Board of Trustees of the American Medical Association has the honor to report to the Association the results of its operations during the year ending December 31, 1918. The year has been one of unusual activity and achievement for the Association, and the Board is proud to have been able to accomplish so much for the benefit of the medical profession and the public.

The first of the major accomplishments of the Association during the year has been the successful completion of the reorganization of the Association. This has been a long and arduous task, but the Board is confident that the new structure of the Association will be more efficient and more representative of the medical profession than ever before. The reorganization has resulted in the elimination of many overlapping functions and the consolidation of many departments, thus saving the Association a large amount of money which can be used for the benefit of the medical profession.

The Board of Trustees of the American Medical Association has the honor to report to the Association the results of its operations during the year ending December 31, 1918.
