Att: Mr. L.D. Galloway

Dear Mr. Galloway:

As you are aware, two packer leakage tests have been conducted on the above-named well. One was conducted on March 6, 1957 with the Pictured Cliffs Formation being blown to the atmosphere and the Shut-In Pressure recorded on the Mesaverde Formation. There was no drop in pressure recorded on the Mesaverde side. On March 13, 1957 following a seven-day shut-in the well was tested again with the Mesaverde side being blown to the atmosphere and the shut-in pressure recorded on the Pictured Cliffs. The initial shut-in pressure was 665# and the final shut-in pressure 660#. It is possible that this 5-pound pressure drop was due to temperature effect. However in order to add to our information on packer leakage tests I would like to request that this well have a seven-day test run with a pressure recording gauge installed on the shut-in side at such time as either side is connected to the pipeline. It seems to me that this would possibly verify the possibility of a 5-pound pressure differential being caused by temperature variation in the event that the above-mentioned test indicates that there is no leak.

Yours very truly
