Dear Mr. Townsend:

In reply to your letter of September 8, 1995, please be advised that the following wells were shut-in for economic reasons. The economics of these wells have not changed and it is planned to continue to keep the wells on a shut-in status.

These wells, as well as all wells in the Carracas Unit, are continually monitored to check site security, equipment integrity and pressures. The economics of returning the wells to production are calculated monthly. These wells are connected to a gathering system and are physically able to be returned to production when economics allow.

Nassau continues to keep abreast of technology improvements which might enhance the productivity of these wells and allow them to be economic wells. To date, nothing has been developed which will allow the wells to be produced economically at present gas prices.

All wells are located in T32N R04W, Rio Arriba County, New Mexico.
