This well was converted to a water injection well February 17, 1967. NMOCC approval obtained under WFX Order 234 dated April 24, 1966. On January 1, 1989 it was converted to a CO2 injection well, and on December 9, 1993 it was converted back to an active water injection well.

In September 11, 2002 a sundry was sent in requesting temp abandonment status. This was done in error based on the MIT test that was performed which is required for an injection well. This request was perpetuated by the sundry dated September 22, 2003. This well has always been and is currently an active injection well, it was never temporarily abandoned. Please note this correction.
