June 18, 1968, Kobe pumping equipment was installed. The well pumped water and load oil until October 21, 1968. An acid treatment of 1000 gallons was injected October 22, 1968, and the well returned to pumping until December 31, 1968. Recovery was salt water and all load oil. Pumping equipment was removed January 5, 1969, and the attempts to produce from the Bough "C" was stopped, pending abandonment of the well. Proposal to permanently abandon this well will be forthcoming in the second quarter of operations in 1969.
