THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY

The New York Public Library, Astor Lenox Tilden Foundation, is a public library system in New York City. It is the largest public library system in the United States, with over 50 million volumes and 29 million serials. The library is located in the main branch at 475 Fifth Avenue, and has several other branches throughout the city.

The library is a non-profit organization, and its funds are derived from the sale of books and other materials. It is governed by a board of trustees, and its operations are managed by a director.

The library is open to the public, and its collections are available for borrowing. It also provides a variety of other services, including reference, research, and educational programs.

The library is a member of the American Library Association, and is also a member of the International Association of Agricultural Librarians and Documentalists.

The library is a valuable resource for the community, and its collections are a treasure trove of knowledge. It is a place where everyone can find what they need to learn and grow.
