WASHINGTON, April 8 (AP) — The Senate today passed a bill to create a new federal agency to oversee the nation's nuclear power plants. The bill, known as the Nuclear Power Plant Safety Act, was passed by a vote of 84 to 14. The bill would create the Nuclear Power Plant Safety Administration, which would be responsible for the safety of all nuclear power plants in the United States. The bill also would require the administration to conduct regular inspections of all nuclear power plants and to issue orders to shut down any plant that was found to be unsafe. The bill was introduced by Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) and was sponsored by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).
