INSTRUCTIONS TO THE JURY

The jury is the fact finder in this case. It is your duty to listen to the evidence and to decide whether the defendant is guilty or not guilty. You must base your decision only on the evidence presented to you in court. You must not let sympathy, prejudice, or any other outside influences affect your decision. You must also follow the law as given to you by the judge.

The evidence in this case is as follows:

On the day of the crime, the defendant was seen near the victim's car. The victim's car was found with its doors open and the victim's belongings scattered around it. The defendant was seen running away from the car. The defendant was also seen with a bloody shirt. The defendant was arrested shortly after the crime. The defendant has a criminal record for a similar crime in the past.

The jury must decide whether the defendant is guilty or not guilty.
