DETAILED ACCOUNT OF WORK DONE AND RESULTS OBTAINED

On June 20, 1950 at 1:30 A. M., 48 hours had elapsed since cementing the 9-5/8" casing at 4530' with 850 sacks 8% gel and 100 sacks neat cement.

At the above time, pipe and water shut-off were tested before drilling the plug by applying 1025 psi. The pressure dropped to 975 psi in 30 minutes. After drilling 82' of solid cement, shut-off was tested again by applying 750 psi. Pressure dropped to 700 psi in 30 minutes. Tests were considered satisfactory and drilling was resumed.

THE HISTORY OF THE UNITED STATES

CHAPTER I

The first settlers of the United States were the English, who came to the continent in the early part of the seventeenth century. They found the land inhabited by the Indians, who were divided into many different tribes. The English settled in the eastern part of the continent, and the Indians in the western part. The English were at first friendly to the Indians, but as they increased in number, they became more and more hostile to them. The Indians were driven from their land, and the English took possession of it. The English then settled in the western part of the continent, and the Indians were driven from their land, and the English took possession of it.
