To repair tubing leak we propose to do the following:

1. Close Gorrett sleeve at 6821 ft., in Drinkard string, and bleed tubing down to determine if leak is in the tubing or the packer. Observe pressure on tubing and casing.
2. Kill both zones with inverted emulsion mud by unseating seal assembly and displacing hole down Drinkard tubing.
3. Pull both strings of tubing and replace bad joints. If no hole is found, tubing to be tested when going back into the hole.
4. Test and return to production.
