Handwritten text, mostly illegible due to extreme fading and bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text appears to be organized into several paragraphs, with some lines being more distinct than others. Faint words like "the", "and", "of", and "is" are visible throughout the document.

Handwritten signature or initials in the bottom right corner, possibly reading "John Smith" or similar, followed by a date that is difficult to decipher but appears to include "1891".
