

NEW MEXICO OIL CONSERVATION COMMISSION
Santa Fe, New Mexico

MISCELLANEOUS REPORTS ON WELLS

Submit this report in triplicate to the Oil Conservation Commission or its proper agent within ten days after the work specified is completed. It should be signed and sworn to before a notary public for reports on beginning drilling operations, results of shooting well, results of test of casing shut-off, result of plugging of well, and other important operations, even though the work was witnessed by an agent of the Commission. Reports on minor operations need not be signed and sworn to before a notary public. See additional instructions in the Rules and Regulations of the Commission.

Indicate nature of report by checking below:

REPORT ON BEGINNING DRILLING OPERATIONS		REPORT ON REPAIRING WELL
REPORT ON RESULT OF SHOOTING OR CHEMICAL TREATMENT OF WELL		REPORT ON PULLING OR OTHERWISE ALTERING CASING
REPORT ON RESULT OF TEST OF CASING SHUT-OFF	X	REPORT ON DEEPENING WELL
REPORT ON RESULT OF PLUGGING OF WELL

Hobbs, New Mexico
Place

January 27, 1937
Date

OIL CONSERVATION COMMISSION,
Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Gentlemen:

Following is a report on the work done and the results obtained under the heading noted above at the _____

Skelly Oil Company R. R. Sims Well No. 2 in the Company or Operator
C NE/4, SW/4 of Sec. 3, T. 23, R. 37, N. M. P. M.,
South Eunice Field, Lea County.

The dates of this work were as follows: November 26, 1936

Notice of intention to do the work was [#####] submitted on Form C-102 on November 26 19 36 and approval of the proposed plan was [#####] obtained. (Cross out incorrect words.)

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF WORK DONE AND RESULTS OBTAINED

Drilled plug, bailed hole and tested for casing shut-off in 8-5/8" OD casing set at 1193' by Halliburton Method. From November 26th to January 26th was spent waiting on and moving in larger machine. Casing shut-off tested OK. Now drilling ahead.

Witnessed by J. C. Clower Clower Drilling Company Supt.
Name Company Title

Subscribed and sworn to before me this _____

28 day of January, 19 37

[Signature]
Notary Public

My Commission expires Dec. 10, 1940

I hereby swear or affirm that the information given above is true and correct.

Name P. E. Cooper

Position Dist. Superintendent

Representing Skelly Oil Company

Address Hobbs, New Mexico
Company or Operator

Remarks:

[Signature] Name

Title

RECORDS OF THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES

The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) is the federal agency responsible for the preservation and management of the nation's historical records. It is located in College Park, Maryland, and is part of the Department of the Interior.

The NARA's primary mission is to ensure the long-term preservation and accessibility of the nation's records. This includes the collection, organization, and maintenance of records from federal agencies, as well as the provision of access to these records for researchers and the public.

The NARA's collections are divided into several major categories, including:
1. General Records: These are records that are not part of a specific agency's collection but are of national interest.
2. Agency Records: These are records that are part of a specific federal agency's collection.
3. Manuscripts: These are handwritten documents, including letters, diaries, and other personal papers.
4. Maps: These are historical maps and other cartographic documents.
5. Photographs: These are historical photographs and other visual documents.

The NARA's collections are available to the public through a variety of means, including:
1. In-person visits: Researchers can visit the NARA's facilities in College Park, Maryland, to view and use the collections.
2. Online access: Many of the NARA's collections are available online through the National Archives Catalog.
3. Microfilm and microfiche: Some of the NARA's collections are available on microfilm and microfiche.
4. Reproductions: The NARA provides reproductions of its collections for sale to the public.

The NARA's collections are an important part of the nation's historical heritage. They provide a valuable record of the events and activities of the federal government and the American people. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

RECORDS OF THE NATIONAL ARCHIVES

The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) is the federal agency responsible for the preservation and management of the nation's historical records. It is located in College Park, Maryland, and is part of the Department of the Interior.

The NARA's primary mission is to ensure the long-term preservation and accessibility of the nation's records. This includes the collection, organization, and maintenance of records from federal agencies, as well as the provision of access to these records for researchers and the public.

The NARA's collections are divided into several major categories, including:
1. General Records: These are records that are not part of a specific agency's collection but are of national interest.
2. Agency Records: These are records that are part of a specific federal agency's collection.
3. Manuscripts: These are handwritten documents, including letters, diaries, and other personal papers.
4. Maps: These are historical maps and other cartographic documents.
5. Photographs: These are historical photographs and other visual documents.

The NARA's collections are available to the public through a variety of means, including:
1. In-person visits: Researchers can visit the NARA's facilities in College Park, Maryland, to view and use the collections.
2. Online access: Many of the NARA's collections are available online through the National Archives Catalog.
3. Microfilm and microfiche: Some of the NARA's collections are available on microfilm and microfiche.
4. Reproductions: The NARA provides reproductions of its collections for sale to the public.

The NARA's collections are an important part of the nation's historical heritage. They provide a valuable record of the events and activities of the federal government and the American people. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.

The NARA's collections are a testament to the nation's history and the role of the federal government. They are a valuable resource for researchers and the public alike. The NARA's mission is to ensure that these records are preserved for future generations and are accessible to all who wish to study them.