COMMISSION ON THE STATUS OF WOMEN

REPORT OF THE COMMISSION

The Commission on the Status of Women was established by the General Assembly of the United Nations in 1946. Its mandate was to study the position of women in all spheres of life and to make recommendations for their improvement. The Commission has since that time held several sessions and has produced a number of reports and resolutions.

The Commission's work has been carried out through a series of studies and reports. These have covered a wide range of subjects, including the legal status of women, their participation in public life, their economic position, and their family life. The Commission has also held numerous consultations with governments and other organizations, and has received many suggestions for improvement.

The Commission's work has been carried out in a spirit of cooperation and collaboration with other organizations and individuals. It has received the support of many governments and has been able to carry out its work effectively.
